TAKE IT EASY WHEN YOU HUNT

With the hunting season open throughout Maine on November 1 the President of the Maine Heart Association has strongly recommended that hunters not accustomed to regular outdoor exercise "take it easy" when they invade the Maine woods this Fall.

Dr Wilson H McWethy pointed out that during the Fall months there are a great many more names in the dreaded obituary column because of heart diseases due to overexertion and physical fitness than from the highly publicized accidents by shooting.

The Maine Heart Association head strongly recommended that "would-be sportsmen" have a physical examination before the annual hunting trip. For hunters over 40 he made it clear that one of the great dangers comes with overweight.

"Aches, pains, sore muscles and sprains are to be expected," Dr McWethy said, "but 'strokes', hemorrhages, hernias and the like are also within the realm of possibility. Paralysis, and permanent injury to the heart and other vital organs frequently are the result of over-weight, over-exertion and lack of physiological fitness."

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Cuero, Texas Record: "The trend toward less time and less production on the job with no reduction in pay continues .. many people do not know what to do with the leisure time they now have, let alone with more free hours. Off the job they seem lost; they fritter their their time away. They need what might be called idleness training, a development of inner resources that will make leisure time fruitful. They....will pose a growing challenge to society as working hours decrease."

Alameda, Calif., Times-Star: "...agricultural production is vastly greater now than it was in the mid-1850's. The introduction and constant improvement of farm machinery together with the adoption of better farming methods has made higher production possible with less time and effort."

Tempe, Ariz., Daily News: "All media of communication have been very much occupied recently with talk about voter apathy. If it does exist, it is highly understandable, for the whole trend of politics now tends to make more and more people feel that they have no stake in the government."

Cynthia, David and Clyde Crockett spent Saturday in Norway with their uncle and aunt, Mr and Mrs Richard Crockett. Mrs Clayton Crockett and daughter returned from the Rumford hospital Sunday.

Mr and Mrs Paul King and family have moved this week to their new home on Evergreen Road. Mr and Mrs Edmond Robertson and family are occupying the apartment which they vacated in Chester Briggs' house on Chapman Street.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

May I take this time to remind you of the proclamation recently issued by Governor Edmund S Muskie, that we consider the week of Nov. 4-9 as Civil Defense Week and Nov. 12 as Veteran's Day.

You may be interested to know we have just received the final payment of the hurricane damage from the Civil Defense through the Treasurer of the State of Maine. This completes for us full payment of the rebuilding of Meadow Brook bridge constructed last year. Also a smaller amount for other hurricane damages. Total check was just over $1,800.

It seems fitting that we do our share in Civil Defense as needed.

Everyone is aware no doubt that Nov. 6 is Presidential Election Day. I hope every eligible Bethel citizen will find it possible to have their vote in the ballot box before the polls close that day. Please note all persons not registered must do so by 4:30 p. m. Monday, Nov. 5th, 1956.

Thanks,
O. T. Rozelle

CMP TRANSMISSION LINES REBUILT AT PARIS HILL-W. PARIS

During the past two Sunday afternoons, Central Maine Power Company crews have rebuilt approximately four and one-half miles of transmission line between Paris Hill and Trap Corner at West Paris.

According to CMP's Norway district manager, Donald C. Kilgour, the new and larger aluminum wire which was strung will enable the company to supply more power to their area between Paris Hill and Bethel.

Electric service in the communities of West Paris, Bryant Pond, Locke Mills, Bethel, East Bethel, West Sumner and Paris Hill was interrupted while the linemen did their work. On both afternoons the crews finished ahead of the previously announced schedule, Mr Kilgour said.

During the first phase of the job, which took place October 21, approximately 100 men worked along three miles of the 33,000-volt high-line. To control and coordinate the widely separated crews, CMP engineers used radios in cars and trucks. Crews which were in inaccessible locations along the right-of-way were equipped with walkie-talkie radio units.

As soon as the signal was given that the line was dead and work could begin linemen swarmed up the poles and removed the old wire. They then changed insulators where necessary and lifted the new, heavy-duty, stranded aluminum wire into position.

District Manager Kilgour stated that the second phase of the work on October 28 included the rebuilding of a mile and a half of line between Trap Corner and Paris Hill. About 70 men were employed there and at a road crossing near Bryant Pond, which was also rebuilt all the way from Norway to the substation under construction at Trap Corner. Last year Central Maine Power Company renewed that section of the line which lies between Norway and Paris Hill.

The new substation will take the place of substations now at Paris Hill and at West Paris. Power lines which bring electricity from the substations to the homes and places of business in the area will also be re-built. They will be supplied with electric power at 12,470 volts, a higher voltage that now exists in the area.

The Norway district manager explained that the rebuilding of transmission and power lines in the area will enable the local utility to continue to supply the ever-increasing demand for more electricity. He pointed out that electricity users in the Norway district (including the Paris-Bethel area) increased their use of electric power for lighting, TV sets, ranges and other use by 57 percent in the five years 1950 to 1955.

During the same five years, the average number of customers for electric power in the Norway district increased by only 12 percent. In other words, Mr Kilgour said, people are "living better electrically" in this area.

YOUR BALLOT MAY DECIDE TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Senator Frederick Payne's report issued this week stresses the importance of voting in the election next Tuesday. The message should be of interest to every citizen. Senator Payne writes:

As the Presidential campaign approaches the final climax, there is still at least one issue on which both major candidates heartily agree—the importance of voting. Both President Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson have repeatedly urged all eligible voters to make their political decisions known at the polls November 6th.

Every vote counts in close elections, and one can never tell in advance how close it may be. For example, one vote elected the mayor in Minnesota's fourth largest city last year; in 1948 President Truman carried California and Ohio by less than one vote per precinct; in 1950 Governor Williams won in Michigan by less than one vote per three precincts; Senator Lyndon Johnson won nomination for his seat the first time by a majority of only 87 votes in all of Texas; and Governors Meyner in New Jersey and Harriman in New York are presently in office by voting margins of less than one vote per precinct. And nearer home was the extremely close vote in our own First Congressional District in September.

To truly reflect the will of the many and varied groups of citizens which constitute the political and economic fabric of this great nation, the highest possible number of eligible voters must participate in the electoral process which is the very heart of democracy. Let me add to the pleas of both major candidates my own sincere hope that all of you, regardless of party affiliation or personal preference, will make your voice heard next Tuesday where it really counts the most—at the polls.

Ideas from other editors

From the Port Angus Courier, Bordsport, Oregon: It's Ike and Dick against Ike and Dick. It's the GOPS against the INS, so far as the presidency and the vice presidency are concerned. It's the Eisenhower administration which is on trial before the voters, but the record is clouded by the fact that the Democrats, most of the way, have had effective control of the Congress. For the accomplishments and failures of the last four years, neither party can be accused all the blame or all the credit.

Not for many, many years have the issues been so vague. The Democrats have expended a vast amount of convention time and oratory and platform verbiage to create an impression of crisis, at home and abroad. But for Mr. Average American this "crisis" does not exist. Mr. Average American is reasonably prosperous—in spite of living costs which have hit an all time peak; he feels reasonably secure in his job, despite intimations of depression or recession. There are the usual rumors of wars but Mr. Hatter and the Turk are a long way off. our Armed Forces are on guard in nearly every part of the world—but the slaughter in Korea has stopped and our sons are not fighting for defense.

"How can the issues of this campaign be dramatized?"

This is a campaign in which, so far, there is no heat point for fear or hate. In the mid-thirties there was always the sharply defined choice between the New Deal and "reaction." Today most of the Republicans are more advanced in their social thinking than some of FDR's early cohorts. Under Harry Truman, corruption became a clearly defined issue but the corruption has been cleaned up. The Democrats have made a great effort to build the so-called "give-aways" into "scandals," but they have failed to find any "deep freezers" or "mink coats."

One of the many orators of the Democrat convention (and our memory says it was Stevenson himself) suggested that we must accept as settled most of the issues of other years and turn toward the future and the problems it presents. With this we can agree.

We are now well into the ERA of ANXIETY which was predicted when the first atom bomb was unveiled.

We are enjoying peace but it is the uneasy peace of the armed camp where a single mistake could precipitate disaster.

We are enjoying a prosperity which is precarious because we have mortgaged the future as well as the past.

Economic Highlights . . . . .

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

In the United States, as every school child is taught, we have a two-party system of government. But that fact does not exclude other parties from coming into being and attempting to make their weight felt in forming national policies. Since the early days of the Republic, in fact, many a minor party has presented candidates to the voters. Some of these have been on the extreme side such as the Vegetarian Party. Others have been the outgrowth of strong and thoughtful protest from both the left and right wings against the positions of the major parties. And some have polled a substantial number of votes.

In 1912 Theodore Roosevelt, with the Bull Moose ticket, was given 88 electoral votes as against 8 for Taft and 435 for Wilson. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin headed the Progressive Party and campaigned on the principle that both the Republicans and Democrats were cutting the cloth of the big interests. He received 13 electoral votes to 444 and 87 electoral votes, respectively, for Wilson, Taft and Roosevelt. Other minor parties have polled a substantial number of votes.

In 1948 Thomas E. Dewey, with the Bull Moose ticket was given 89 electoral votes as against 8 for Harry S. Truman. In 1924 Senator La Follette of Wisconsin headed the Progressive Party and campaigned on the principle that both the Republicans and Democrats were cutting the cloth of the big interests. He received 13 electoral votes to 444 and 87 electoral votes, respectively, for Coolidge, Davis and Robert M. La Follette. In 1948 Governor Thurmond of South Carolina received 39 electoral votes to 303 for Truman and 189 for Dewey. Other minor parties have polled a substantial number of votes.

The year we have a third party candidate is the Democratic State Party. Some Democrats are not in favor of Governor Muskie and others are opposed to the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt. Woman Thomas, and others of Democratic Governor Percival P. Baxter and Democratic Senator Frederick G. Payne and Democratic Representative Robert Hale, have announced that they will support the Republican ticket. To some degree, major party leaders are supporting it. It could happen again.

This is a campaign in which, so far, there is no heat point for fear or hate. In the mid-thirties there was always the sharply defined choice between the New Deal and "reaction." Today most of the Republicans are more advanced in their social thinking than some of FDR's early cohorts. We are enjoying peace but it is the uneasy peace of the armed camp where a single mistake could precipitate disaster.

We are enjoying a prosperity which is precarious because we have mortgaged the future as well as the past.

The party has managed to get its ticket on the ballot in a number of states; in others, it is working to attract write-in votes.

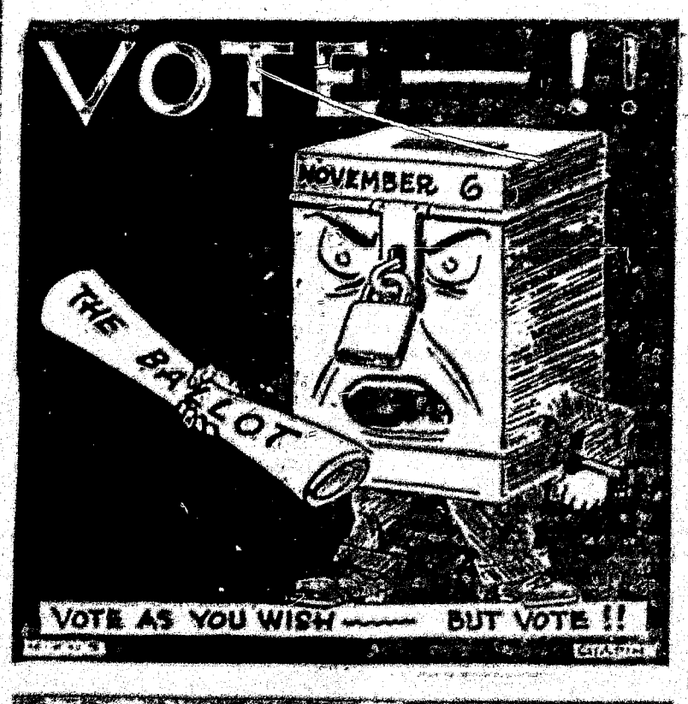
This, of course, is a party of protest. Those who subscribe to its platform feel that there is no place for them in the major parties—and that the major parties are so much alike in basic ideas as to offer the public little choice. Mr. Andrews stands for repeal of the income tax and its replacement with an entirely different tax system, the termination of all foreign aid, and decentralization of governmental authority.

The Wall Street Journal said of it: "The third party's aims are modest. Too most enthusiastic say their highest hope is that several million voters will support its nominees and principles. In some states—especially in the South—there is grumbling about the Richmond meeting, some Democrats think that since there is a clear race the rise of the new party may throw the election to the Republicans. And Republicans are voicing the same fears.

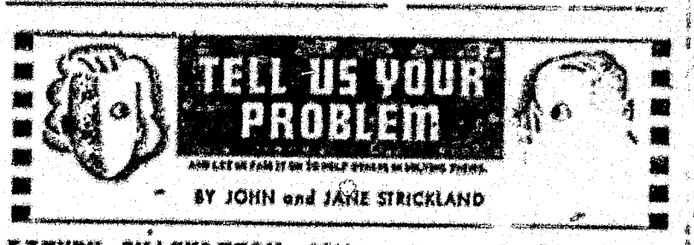
"If that does occur, it will show that the new party has potential clout locally. And the voters William Henry Chamberlain calls the disgusted conservatives may sense they find the policy-makers in the major parties a bit more willing to listen to their protesting voice."

The views of minor party leaders and the past existing lives of such diverse figures as Theodore Roosevelt, Woman Thomas, and Governor Wilmot have ultimately to some degree, major party leaders. It could happen again.

DON'T BE A SLACKER



SENATOR'S NEW JOB . . . Sen. Walter F. George (Ga.), Pres. Eisenhower's personal representative to NATO, visits outgoing SHAPE commander Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther in Paris.



HENRY SHACKLETON, 12 Endview Avenue, Lynbrook, New York, solved a problem common to many. The problem? Usually he couldn't remember the name of a man after meeting him. He was embarrassed practically every day for Henry was a salesman of electrical appliances and frequently a customer would make two or more calls before he bought an appliance that ran into fifty dollars or more.

He questioned his friends and found that most of them had the same difficulty. But most of them didn't sell appliances. Finally a friend told him how he had conquered the poor memory trait. Here are the rules he gave to Henry, which worked wonders and virtually doubled his monthly sales:

1—When you meet a person whom it will be to your advantage to recognize later, look at him (or her) study his features and while doing so, silently repeat his name.

2—Make a mental note of what you talk about, looking at him closely all of the time.

3—The moment you part, write down his name, and visualize his features.

4—Afterwards go about your affairs visualizing the man and recall his interests.

5—At the end of the day, peruse your notebook, connect each of the names you have entered with a visual image of his features.

"I did just that," says Henry Shackleton, "and I now seldom fail to recognize anyone to whom I have applied this memory formula. In addition to making sales for me, it has greatly increased the number of my personal friendships.

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, November 1

Read Matthew 5:13-16.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. (Matthew 5:16).

MANY Christians today ask the question, "How can I be true to my Christian calling when I am surrounded by so much that is unchristian?" Jesus said, "Ye are the light of the world." Men do not "light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick." This does not mean that Christians are to go and hide somewhere; they have the obligation to be lights that shine into this unchristian world to make it a more decent place.

We are not called to criticize or condemn the world; Christ said, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel." However, preaching is not confined to words only but to living the gospel so that others will see our good works and glorify our Father in heaven.

This demands a faithful turning to God in Prayer, and holding fast to those high standards of character revealed to us in the Sermon on the Mount. Only so will the light of Christ shine forth through us.

Prayer

Our heavenly Father, help us to be faithful to our Christian calling. Bless every humble soul who, in these days of turmoil, preaches sermons without words, and so shows forth the glory of Thy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Thought For The Day

Christian love best expresses itself in Christian actions.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

"I HAVEN'T TIME"

The writer has found that some men will try to excuse themselves from a good deed by saying, "I haven't the time." Some years ago, the writer while serving a city church met a young man from another city, who talked of his "home church" and of his mother's faithfulness as a member. The pastor gave him an invitation to find a place in his church.

The substance of the young man's declining the invitation was that he did not have time for the church. He said he was doing everything possible to establish himself in business and it required all his time. One day the pastor, returning to the city by train, saw a large sign bearing the young man's name and his business. Seemingly he was getting on. But he never found time to give to the Lord.

One day a poor woman came with a plea to King Philip of Macedonia, father of Alexander the Great. And the king put her off, saying he did not have time for the matter. "Then, Sire," the woman told him, "you haven't time to be king!" The answer so struck the monarch that he heard her patiently and granted her plea. If a king on his throne hasn't time to do justice for the lowliest of his subjects, he hasn't time to be king. And if a man hasn't time to serve God, what has he time to do?

Limburger cheese is made only in Van Wert, Ohio. The tangy, soft-ripening cheese was discovered accidentally by an appreciative 40 years ago and named after a New York singing society to which it was first served.

The southernmost source of the Nile River, the world's longest, is ten tiny springs 6,700 feet above sea level in the central African highlands.

The average size American home uses about 10,000 board feet of lumber, the annual growth on only 10 acres of Douglas fir region forest lands.

Tin, together with lead, bismuth and cadmium, forms fusible metals with low melting points which are used in automatic fire alarms and sprinkler systems.

The mammoth size of the electric shovels used in strip mining of bituminous coal can readily be seen in the fact that one such shovel, with a 35-cubic yard capacity, would load 40,000 railroad hopper cars each month.

BETHEL LIBRARY NOTES

Last Friday morning Bethel Public Library was most happy to receive a visit from the two eighth grades from Crescent Park School and their teachers, Mrs Lurvey and Mr Heino. Two weeks ago we were equally happy to be visited by the two fifth grades and their teachers, Mrs Rowland and Mrs Hastings. The young folks were made acquainted with the various types of reading material available for their age group and where to find these books in the library. Mrs Davis, of the Library staff, showed the non-fiction, and commented specifically on some of these books and Mrs Guerney reviewed some of the fiction, new and old, which interest young people. Book circulation amongst these students has increased steadily since their visits and a greater variety of reading matter has been borrowed.

Have you visited your library lately? Are you familiar with all the types of reading matter which we have to offer you? Do you realize that many of the latest magazines are there for you to borrow for home use, as well as back copies which may contain just the information for which you have been searching? Do you know that there are rare books on rug-making, antiques, wood-working and other hobbies? Do you know that there are splendid books on birds, bees, insects, as well as flowers and trees and all the aspects of nature? Are you interested in travel? We have travel books from many parts of the world, as well as the books of history and geography on these countries which you will wish to read at the same time. There are separate sections on manners, ethics and religion, psychology and other subjects. One whole shelf is devoted to very interesting biographies of all sorts of people. One section is devoted to Maine books and its authors.

Or are you interested only in fiction? We have something to interest everyone from the best novels of the world's best writers, past and present, to light romances, westerns and mysteries. If you enjoy historical novels especially, there are many of these, covering many, many periods of history in story form.

Have you visited your library lately? Why not follow the example of the young people and come in and get acquainted with your library and its fascinating possibilities for your reading pleasure. The library staff will be glad to help you find those books which may interest you or, if you prefer, you may browse at your will and find your favorites for yourself.

GOULD ACADEMY

MEXICO 32—GOULD 6

Powerful Mexico High ran their string of victories to 23 as they defeated Gould here last Saturday 32-6. The Pintos packed two much power, speed, and experience for the hitherto unbeaten Gould eleven.

Mexico opened by kicking off to Gould but the Huskies were forced to punt as the visitors' strong line held firm. The Mexico team took over on their own 24 yd. line and in four plays marched 76 yards with Cunningham carrying 55 yards off his own right tackle to score. Stewart took a pass in the end zone for the extra point.

A few minutes later Gould was forced to kick again and Sweatt blocked it and the ball rolled to the G. A. 4 yard line. Perry scored on the first play and Mexico was out front 13-0.

On the third kick-off Smith carried from the 22 yard line to the 30. Two line plays failed to gain ground but on the third down play Jim Murphy, circling the Pinto right end went 70 yards to score, making it 13-6.

In the second period Cunningham scored from the one yard line after a 75-yard march. A 34 yard run by Perry helped set up the score. This left the half time score 19-6.

The winners scored twice in the third period to complete the scoring. Gould kicked off to Cunningham on his 26 yard line and he ran back to midfield. Cunningham then ran 30 yads, Perry 15 yards, and after a play with no gain, Cunningham went over for his third TD from the 5 ward line. The final TD was the result of a lateral to Gallant for an 8 yard paydirt jaunt. This time a placekick was successful and the Pintos remained undefeated with a 32-6 victory.

Axtell, co-captain of Mexico, was outstanding on defense. The great ball-carrying of Cunningham, who scored 3 touchdowns and broke away for many lone gains, featured the attack.

Gould could see comfort only in some fine runbacks of kickoffs by Jerry Smith and the 70-yard jaunt by Jim Murphy for their only score.

His foxhole faith stayed with him...

It's been told many times how there were no atheists in the foxholes.

Faith under fire was quick, complete, uncomplicated and unquestioned. Fortunately, many who found faith under these conditions kept it—even after the firing stopped and the last troopship docked back home.

Because much of the hard wisdom learned in war, the faith developed in battle has been put to wider, wiser use in the years that have followed.

It has spread outward now . . . to the family, giving them the strength needed to weather the long, hard pulls and the short, sharp adversities.

That strong family faith and stronger richer life it brings are never built better than now . . . are never built surer than when you worship together regularly—every week. Remember! It's your faith . . . your family!

Build a stronger, richer life . . . worship together this week

FHA OPERATING LOAN SERVICE EXPANDED

New legislation has increased the number of farm families who are eligible to obtain operating loans from the Farmers Home Administration, Elwyn R Morrow the agency's county supervisor said today.

The new law increases the maximum amount than can be advanced, and as a part of the Rural Development Program makes loans available when the farmer has part-time employment off the farm.

Operating loans are made for the purchase of machinery, livestock, equipment, fertilizer, seed tractor fuel and other farm and home operating expenses needed to carry out efficient farming operations on family-type farms. In some instances, a loan may be made for the refinancing of existing debts.

Under this new law loans will also be available to applicants who have part-time employment off the farm, provided they are established farmers conducting substantial farming operations and spending the major portion of their time farming. Such operators must have dependable sources of outside income. The main purpose of these loans will be to help farmers who live in areas designated for the Rural Development Program.

Operating loans are repayable over periods of 1 to 7 years with the interest rate at 5 per cent.

The amount that can be loaned is based on the needs and the ability of the borrower to repay. The loan must be sound.

To be eligible an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, have had satisfactory farm experience or training, and be unable to obtain credit from other sources at a reasonable rate. He must also have, or be able to rent, a suitable family-type farm.

The Farmers Home Administration county committee will determine the eligibility of each applicant. The committee is composed of three men, two of whom must be farmers. In Oxford County the committeemen are William C Chapman, Bethel; Erville A Fernald, Stow; Arthur L Cummings, South Paris.

Additional information regarding these loans may be obtained at the county office of Farmers Home Administration, over the Post Office in South Paris from 8 to 5 Monday through Friday.

Your County Extension Service office stands ready to help you with problems in farming, homemaking, or youth work.

WIDE, WONDERFUL WORLD

By FRANKLIN J. MEINE
Editor, The American Peoples Encyclopedia

INTERNATIONAL good will has little to do with this, but most American housewives could hold the Old World responsible for the three most common species of clothes moths found here. The adult moths are harmless in themselves but the larvae feed upon such materials as wool, silk, and fur. Their names are appropriate but horrifying to the indignant housewife. The American Peoples Encyclopedia describes the three most common moths: The case-making clothes moth: the larvae of which make fragile cases of silken threads and enlarge these structures with bits of the material surrounding the case. The webbing clothes moth is another household irritant. The larvae hide in folds of clothing and cunningly spin webs across the opening of the folds. The tapestry moth is just as objectionable and just as hard to handle. Its larvae burrow galleries in heavy woolens and fur. The more athletic tapestry moth larvae successfully attack leather goods. It is heart-warming even if tongue twisting to know that paradichlorobenzene, among other things, will eliminate the moth family.

ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL

Last Friday all the students had their pictures taken. As far as I know no one broke the camera!!

The Sophomore Biology Class has built an aquarium. They have received snails, waterplants, two newts, and two clams which they ordered. Their project has proved to be quite successful.

One day last week a snake got loose in Biology Class. This caused quite a bit of screeching and hollering for a few minutes. They also had a lizard disappear. Watch your step, kids!!

The Biology Class made slides last week out of salt, cloth, fly wings, blood, etc. All this helps to make Biology much more interesting.

Last Friday afternoon five seniors and one of the teachers went selling ads. They did exceptionally well. We may have our year book advertising done by Nov. 1st after all!

The Seniors are trying to earn a little money for their class trip which isn't too far away. They hope to go to Washington, D. C.

The boys' basketball team is raising money to go toward warm-up jackets.

Both boys' and girls' basketball teams are still practicing and trying to improve their teams. Two of the boys went around school with shiners which they received at practice.

The basketball schedule is as follows: Nov. 21, Oxford there; Nov. 27, Buckfield there; Nov. 30, Woodstock here; Dec. 8, Oxford here; Dec. 11, Woodstock there; Dec. 18, West Paris here; Dec. 21, Canton there; Jan. 8, Canton here; Jan. 11 Buckfield here; Jan. 18, West Paris there.

After rank cards came out last Wednesday, there were some pretty long faces. If you don't succeed at first—try, try, again!!

To earn a living as a farmer, a man must be a jack-of-all-trades, a businessman, a salesman, and a scientist. Maine farmers find that producing crops and livestock today is a complicated business.
